Good morning! It's Zia from class 851 here for Words of Wisdom Wednesday on behalf of the S.E.A.L. Team.

Today is a day to show thanks, gratitude, and appreciation. This is a time of year when we acknowledge the work of our unsung heroes, the people in our community who work so hard everyday to make life better for others. Today is Thank You Day.

Thank You Day started as a way to give credit to the staff at the National Health Service. It was also a way to give appreciation to all those who helped people who were struggling during the pandemic. Although this day acknowledges the amazing work of the volunteers, social workers, charities, and much more, it also reminds us to work together. It encourages us to build on community spirit, cooperation, and lending out a hand when others are in trouble or stuck.

This day is an amazing opportunity for us to express our gratitude to those around us.

Affirmation of the day: I will be honest in my school work, not plagiarizing or cheating.

Thanks for listening and have a With Much Appreciation and Thanks Wednesday.
